ABRSM Piano exams

Pieces

This album contains nine pieces from ABRSM's 2013 & 2014 Grade 5 Piano syllabus. In the exam, candidates must play three pieces, one chosen from each of the three syllabus lists (A, B and C). Candidates are free to choose from the pieces printed in this album and/or from the other pieces set for the grade: a full list is given on the opposite page as well as in the 2013 & 2014 syllabus. All the pieces are valid from 1 January 2013 until 31 December 2014, with a permitted overlap into 2015 as follows:

UK & Republic of Ireland – until the end of Period A (spring exams) 2015

All other countries – until 31 December 2015

The pieces in this album have been taken from a variety of different sources. Where appropriate, they have been checked with original source material and edited to help the player when preparing for performance. Any editorial additions are given in small print; within square brackets; or, in the case of slurs and ties, in the form $\frown$. The fingering has been amended by the editor where necessary to ensure a consistent approach within the album. Details of other editorial amendments or suggestions are given in the footnotes. Fingering and all editorial additions are for guidance only; they are not comprehensive or obligatory. Descriptive titles are given in their original language, and translations into English appear above the footnotes. In the case of titles in a non-Roman alphabet, transliterations are provided to help with pronunciation.

ADDITIONAL IMPORTANT INFORMATION

When planning an exam entry, it is important to refer to the following publications:

- the current Piano syllabus (2013 & 2014)
- the current Exam Information & Regulations (published annually)
- These Music Exams (containing practical advice for candidates, teachers and parents)

These contain information on all aspects of the exam, from entry details to performance requirements such as the observance of repeats. All three publications are available free of charge from music retailers and as downloads from www.abrsm.org/exams.

Musikalische Nebenstunden Musical Leisure Hours

Johann Christoph Friedrich Bach, the second youngest son of Johann Sebastian Bach, entered the service of Count Wilhelm of Schaumburg-Lippe in Bückeburg in 1750. He was promoted to the post of Konzertmeister in 1759 and remained at the court for the rest of his life. He was admired as a keyboard virtuoso as well as a composer.

The collection from which this Allegretto is selected contains not only keyboard pieces but also cantatas and songs. According to Timothy Roberts, editor of the ABRSM edition, short pieces such as this were intended for light entertainment and perhaps also as teaching pieces for the flourishing amateur market.

In this Allegretto, ornament realizations are based on the composer's own instructions. The ornament on the last note of bb. 5 and 6, and in parallel places elsewhere, may be simplified or omitted in the exam. All staccato dots are editorial suggestions only.

Beethoven's 12 Minuets, WoO 7, belong to his early period in Vienna (1792–1802), during which he established a formidable reputation as a brilliant young pianist and composer, playing regularly in the homes of the Viennese aristocracy. The original orchestral version of this collection was composed free of charge, 'out of love for his fellow artists', for a masked ball held by the Pension Society of Viennese Artists on St Cecilia's Day (22 November) 1795. Owing to the great popularity of Beethoven's dances, they were repeated at the same event two years later, on 26 November 1797. The piano reduction of the minuets, of which No. 7 is selected here, appeared only three weeks after the original masked ball of 1795 – another sign of their great success. In No. 7 characteristic Beethovenian touches are already found – for example, the fortissimo chords on the flat supertonic in bb. 13–14.

This allemande is one of Handel's earliest keyboard pieces, composed around 1705 when he was only 20 and living in the North German city of Hamburg. There he played violin and later harpsichord in the Hamburg Opera. At that time, too, he composed keyboard pieces, arias, cantatas, and his first opera Almira.

The allemande is a Baroque dance that became a stylized keyboard piece, either on its own, as here, or as the first movement of the standard suite. It is normally in quadruple time and moderately slow in tempo. The early 18th-century theorist J. G. Walther said that the allemande 'is a serious and dignified movement and should be so performed.'

The musical score for 'The Rose Tree' is presented in two systems. The first system contains measures 1 through 4, and the second system contains measures 5 through 8. The melody is written in the treble clef, and the bass line is in the bass clef. The key signature has one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 2/4. Fingerings are indicated by numbers 1-4 above or below notes. A trill (tr) is marked above the eighth note in measure 6. A repeat sign is at the beginning of the first system. A small inset at the top right shows a rhythmic pattern: a quarter note, an eighth note, and a sixteenth note.

The American composer Edward MacDowell studied in France and Germany, receiving encouragement from Liszt, who was impressed by some of his compositions. He returned to America in 1888, working as a teacher and composer in Boston till 1896, when he was appointed professor of music at Columbia University.

MacDowell's Woodland Sketches, Op. 51, from which this piece is selected, was one of the last fruits of his Boston period: the sketches were composed in 1896, published in the same year, and the collection soon became one of his most popular works. In order to manage the large stretches in bb. 41–4, players might spread the first left-hand chord (b. 41), then use the pedal to sustain the long A beneath the melodic crotchets.

No. 26 from Album für die Jugend, Op. 68Robert Schumann
(1810-56)

Nicht schnell, hübsch vorzutragen ♩ = 88
[Not fast, played prettily]

The musical score is written for piano in B-flat major (two flats) and 2/4 time. It consists of six measures. The first measure starts with a piano (fp) dynamic and a 'con Ped.' instruction. The melody in the right hand features a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, with fingerings 2, 4, and 3-5 indicated. The bass line is mostly rests in the first measure, then enters with eighth notes. The second measure continues the melodic line with fingerings 1, 2, and 5. The third measure has a 3-4 fingering. The fourth measure has a 2-1 fingering and a fp dynamic. The fifth measure has a 1-2-1 fingering. The sixth measure concludes with a 5-2-1 fingering in the bass and a 4-1-2-4-3 fingering in the treble. The score includes various slurs and a metronome mark of 88.

Album für die Jugend Album for the Young

Robert Schumann's Album for the Young, Op. 68, was composed in less than a month in 1848. At the time, the composer wrote: 'I don't remember ever having been in such good musical form... The pieces simply poured out, one after another.' Some of the 42 pieces in the collection were dedicated to Schumann's daughter Marie on her seventh birthday.

This piece is selected from Part II, which is designed for rather more grown-up young people than Part I. It was left untitled by the composer as . In the first edition, supervised by Schumann and published in 1848, the pieces are collectively entitled 'Clavierstücke' (Piano Pieces). The metronome mark is by Schumann's wife Clara.

The Spanish guitarist, teacher and composer Francisco Tárrega entered the Madrid Conservatory to study piano and composition in 1874. He settled in Barcelona in 1885. Tárrega not only composed much guitar music but transcribed for the instrument music by Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Chopin, as well as that of his compatriots Albéniz and Granados. He is credited with having established the foundations of modern classical guitar technique.

This romantic, waltz-style piece is a piano arrangement of an original for the guitar. Grace notes are perhaps best played before the beat. In b. 14 'molto ten.' indicates that the right-hand quaver 3rds should be held for their full value and perhaps slightly prolonged.

Darius Brubeck, the son of Dave Brubeck, is an American jazz keyboard player. In the 1970s he toured with the New Brubeck Quartet. He taught in South Africa from 1983 to 2006, and in 1989 was appointed professor of jazz studies and director of the Centre for Jazz and Popular Music at the University of KwaZulu-Natal. Currently he teaches and performs in Europe, and his present group, the Darius Brubeck Quartet, is based in London.

This piece, with its highly inventive harmonies, was written for Brubeck's granddaughter Lydia when she was 12. The composer has written: 'The melody is pretty, even basic, but beneath this simple diatonic surface, chromatic harmony and inversions add colour and complexity. Rhythm patterns in the left hand (played straight) create momentum under the slow melody line. There are skills to be learnt here: the hands work together and separately, on and off the beat. Metronomic precision, natural dynamic expression and relaxation will follow. For Lydia is not without challenges, but it didn't take her long to learn it.'

Kavaleriiskaya

No. 29 from 30 detskikh p'ies, Op. 27

D. B. Kabalevsky
(1904-87)Allegro molto [$\text{♩} = c.126$]

Musical score for 'Kavaleriiskaya' (Cavalryman) by D. B. Kabalevsky. The score is in 2/4 time, key of B-flat major, and consists of 24 measures. It is divided into four systems. The first system (measures 1-7) features a piano introduction with a forte (f) chord in the right hand and a piano (p) melody in the left hand. The second system (measures 8-14) continues the piano introduction with a forte (f) chord and a piano (p) melody. The third system (measures 15-20) features a forte (f) chord and a piano (p) melody. The fourth system (measures 21-24) features a forte (f) chord and a piano (p) melody. The score includes various musical notations such as dynamics (f, p, sf, mf), articulation (accents, slurs), and fingerings (1-5).

Kavaleriiskaya Cavalryman; Detskikh p'ies Children's Pieces

The Russian composer Dmitry Borisovich Kabalevsky studied piano and composition at the Moscow Conservatory, where he later taught, being appointed professor in 1939. As writer, teacher, composer and administrator, he became a major figure in Soviet music of the 20th century. He was active in the field of music education and wrote much music for children, including the 30 Children's Pieces, Op. 27, from which 'Cavalryman' is selected.

In his performance notes to the Boosey & Hawkes edition, John York has given the following advice: 'Keep the rhythm precise and forward-looking, disciplined but ready for action. There is an enormous wealth of interesting detail in this piece, and it will have tremendous success in performance if every detail is worked out at a slow tempo first. The dynamic range should be wide.'

Guia prático Practical Guide

Heitor Villa-Lobos was the best-known and most admired Brazilian composer of the 20th century. Immensely prolific, he united the techniques of contemporary European art music with elements of the folk and popular music of his native country. In the 1930s and early 1940s he was much concerned with music education and for this purpose used many traditional Brazilian songs he had collected as the basis of his Guia prático. Under this title he published a choral album and 11 piano albums.

In this piece, the dal segno instruction should not be observed in the exam. In the left hand of bb. 12 and 14 etc. the pedal may be used to sustain the lower chord while the hand moves to the note or chord above.
